19. External Provider's compliance to a Human Factors Training Program:

AACC expects External Providers (OEMs, Suppliers and Technical Partners) to have an established Human Factors Training Program for activities related to Aircraft Maintenance and associated parts that are used by AACC. AACC leaves the selection of the Human Factors Training Program selection to the discretion of the External Provider but any Human Factors Training Program should have a similar content to the FAA recommended program and reflect the FAA guidance and structure. Between the AACC Terms and Conditions and the AACC External Providers (OEMs, Suppliers and Technical Partners) Evaluation Questionnaire AACC needs to cover the following:

- a) Human Factors. Human factors is anything that affects human performance. More formally, human factors entails a multidisciplinary effort to generate and compile information about human capabilities and limitations, and apply that information to equipment, systems, facilities, procedures, jobs, environments, training, staffing, and personnel management for safe, comfortable, and effective human performance.
- b) Effective Training. Effective training is the basis for a successful maintenance and inspection program. Although many procedures for maintaining and inspecting aircraft may be similar, the equipment, procedures, and task documentation vary widely depending on the operator/applicant's specific program. Human factors training plays an essential part in identifying the differing areas between specific programs and is the most efficient manner of educating maintenance technicians and others of the importance of good human factors principles, practices, and techniques.

External Providers shall promptly investigate, analyze and report in writing to AACC whether such unauthorized parts should be replaced with genuine parts conforming to the requirement of the order, or whether an alternative solution is recommended to meet the Order requirements at External Provider's expense. The parties shall then agree upon the appropriate course of action.

21. AACC Contractual Flow-down to External Provider:

Due to the nature of some AACC Contracts with Customers it may be necessary for AACC to flow-down Contractual requirements to External Providers. If this is the case AACC will advise the External Provider of the requirements (e.g. Quality) and expect the External Provider to satisfy the requirements of the AACC Customer Purchase Order, this will include compliance with all applicable Export Control laws and regulations.

The External Provider shall ensure before any use of Sub-contractors that AACC has given approval and that any applicable Sub-contractors are flowed-down AACC Customer Contractual requirements. It is the responsibility of the External Provider to flow-down the AACC Customer Contractual requirements to their Sub-contractors and to ensure the applicable conditions are being satisfactorily achieved.
